

THE VICE PRESIDENT

July 12, 2023

I am honored to extend my warmest greetings to the members, leaders, and supporters of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) as you convene for your 79th Biennial Convention in St. Louis.

Since its founding, the CWA has dedicated itself to improving the lives of its members and uplifting workers, organizers, and local leaders. By negotiating for better wages and safer working conditions, you don't just strengthen individuals and their families—you strengthen communities, our Nation, and our economy.

And because of your continued support, President Biden and I are leading the most pro-union, pro-worker Administration in America's history. In our first days after taking office, we raised the minimum wage for federal contractors, and through the White House Labor Task Force—which I am proud to lead—we've helped empower workers who choose to exercise their rights, including by strengthening the enforcement of anti-retaliation protections. And thanks to your work and partnership, we have created millions of good-paying jobs, including many good union jobs.

Thank you for everything you do on behalf of the workers of our Nation. May this convention motivate us to continue our fight to make sure that every American has the opportunity to thrive inside and outside of the workplace. Please know that our Administration is proud to fight alongside you.
